

Because room temperature isn't an option.

We both know you've got better things to worry about than faulty storage. With sterile and sealed coating, alongside walls that just don't crack, let us put your fears to rest with premium quality cryo-tubes.

A photograph showing four Corning cryo-tubes with orange caps and white labels, resting on a pile of crushed white ice. The tubes are arranged in a cluster, with some lying horizontally and others standing upright. The background is a solid dark blue.

Behind every discovery is a sample worth keeping, so don't let subpar suppliers leave you out in the cold.
